

Welcome Back to the Office

Your Company's Comeback Solution for the Next Normal

Come-Back Pack

Embrace the next normal as employees return to work

1 | WELCOME BACK FOLDERS

For returning employees, companies will need to be prepared to inform and welcome. Kits should include:

- New policies for social distancing and temperature checks
- HR programs for returning from leave
- CDC or state-recommended disaster plans

2 | WINDOW, WALL, & DOOR DECALS

Whether super-sized or tiny, signage can go on elevators, closets or conference rooms, plus entryways and halls.

- Tell delivery drivers where to leave packages without a signature
- Cordon off areas like reception if your business is still closed to customers

3 | POSTERS

For any wall, framed or unframed, these can be seen as budget alternatives.

- Standard posters for instructions on temperature checks or new building entry procedures
- Inspirational messaging for your {new} business goals

4 | DISPOSABLE & CONVERTIBLE MESSAGING

Businesses bringing their employees back will need to stay on top of CDC and state requirements such as:

- A-frame “sandwich” boards directing to new entrances
- Simple signage for mask or hand washing policies
- Door hangers or Post-It® Notes for sanitization schedules

EMPLOYEE COMMON AREAS

Rest Rooms

Standard signage needed across all facilities:

- Mirror decals with laminate are durable for sanitization
- Labels on hand dryers to push with elbows
- Decal reminders for the hands-free door opener

Conference Rooms

Share new policies regarding use and access for small group:

- Sanitizer stations and labeling at all doorways
- Seat decals to sit apart

Lunch Rooms

Create social distancing standards and promote your sanitization practices:

- Table tents for two to a table
- Magnets for shared refrigerator storage
- Appliance sterilization labels

5 | LARGE-SCALE SIGNAGE

Welcome customers into your office, but show your careful planning. First impressions have never mattered more and large signage, visible to the passing traffic, will raise awareness as we move beyond the virus.

- Entryway decals can be temporary or long-lasting. Think of marketing appointment-only services as well as your resilience
- Display window signage for your business or join forces with neighbors to showcase the renewal of your community, a downtown district, or a business park

6 | CONVERTIBLE SIGNAGE

Budget alternatives can build a campaign using materials that can be swapped out as new information arrives.

- Use A-frame “sandwich” boards to post about your new contactless commerce or teleservices
- Yard signs are simple and effective. Cover your property or show your geographic reach by posting on yards around the community

7 | DIRECT MAIL

Print is still the most highly trusted medium — inform and inspire your customers back into your offering.

- Share a letter from leadership on a new, disinfectable synthetic stock — no joke, you can wipe it down with sanitizer or other disinfectant
- Postcards are fast and budget-friendly; share how you’re reshaping business strategies to meet new needs

RECEPTION AREA

New Protocols

Show how you’re minimizing risk in high traffic areas:

- Floor decals for social distancing where lines form
- Table tents or door hangers with sanitization schedules

Acrylic Partitions

Sneeze guards protect without needing masks. Particularly good for checkout counters, banks, reception desks, etc.

Marketing

Business is anything but usual, be clear and on point with customers:

- Rack cards or brochures for services available today and which are coming soon
- Appointment cards to limit walk-ins
